Fire Door Installation Awareness Two day course developed by the British Woodworking Federation.

Who is this course for?

1. Those studying for or that have attained NVQ Level 2 in passive fire protection or on-site carpentry and wish to work towards NVQ unit accreditation for installing fire doors.
2. Those that want to increase their awareness about fire door installation.

What does the course cover?

1. Why it's important to get the installation of timber-based fire doors right.
2. Understanding about how and why fire doors work and their place in safety systems.
3. Legislation and guidance associated with timber-based fire doors.
4. The risks involved for you, your business and the customers you serve.
5. What you need to think about before you install a fire door.
6. What to look for during installation.
7. What to look for after you finish the installation.

How is the training delivered?

1. The course can only be delivered by NOCN approved training providers, having met the requirements of the centre approval process.
2. The training is interactive with shared activities involving all students and the trainer.
3. The training includes BWF video presentations about the importance of correct specification & installation, about fire door testing and about the fire door as a fire safety system.
4. An official Certificate of Achievement would be awarded upon completion of the course.

How was the training course developed and why?

1. The course has been developed by the British Woodworking Federation to help improve awareness about the importance of compliant installation of fire doors.

How long does it take to study?

1. The course is over two consecutive days at a venue provided by the approved training provider, although the trainer may agree to come to your own premises if you have the necessary facilities.
